

I asked if my patient had been pregnant
in the last year.

That critical
question led
to a life-saving
diagnosis.

Over 700 women in the U.S. die every year of pregnancy-related complications.

Deaths can occur up to a year after pregnancy.
Most of these deaths are preventable.

Ask your patient if they are pregnant or have been pregnant in the last year.

It could help save a life.
